— STEVE JOBS

A whimsical, cartoon-style illustration of a mountain landscape. In the center, a large, grey, stone-like creature with a long, flowing green beard and a green, pointed hat stands on a rocky outcrop. It has a simple, friendly face with large eyes and a wide smile. A large, light-colored speech bubble with a black outline emanates from the creature, containing the text "What makes a great story?". The background features a variety of mountains: some are dark grey and jagged, while others are green and rounded. A bright blue river winds through the green valleys. The sky is a light blue with a few white, fluffy clouds. The overall style is playful and imaginative, with a focus on natural elements and a central character.
